INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENT

SEASON’S GREETINGS!

The Holiday Season is a time when people and organizations reflect upon the year that is ending and the New Year which is approaching. For the GMP, 2014 was a year during which we continued our fight to preserve our values, our rights and our hard-won advantages. The GMP enjoyed many successes during the year including scores of successor collective bargaining agreements negotiated with hard won advancements in wages and benefits for many of our members and vigorous protection of member’s rights through the grievance and arbitration process. This past year saw many of our employers enjoy growth and prosperity, while others remained steady. A small minority of employers, unfortunately, continue to struggle and face difficult challenges. We are pleased to report that most GMP members continue to enjoy secure employment, the advantages of hard-fought collective bargaining agreements and continuing prosperity; however, during this past year we have also seen our share of threatened or actual plant closing and layoffs as well. Layoffs and plant closings are heartbreaking for everyone involved. The GMP exerts every effort to protect our members jobs and continues to work tirelessly for those who face layoffs and plant closings to obtain every advantage for them that we can.

The GMP looks forward to the privilege of representing our members in the New Year. We face many challenges ahead in 2015 and must work together to meet those challenges. The political landscape we face will be difficult as a result of the disappointing mid-term election results. We must renew our determination to work within the democratic process to protect America’s working families from the onslaught which is likely to come from the new Congress. We all can be proud of the efforts the GMP made in 2014 to protect working families, which included educating our membership on the issues and candidates, working hard to get out the vote and supporting the election of many key legislators who promised to work for working families. Politics and legislation affect our everyday lives and the GMP must therefore remain vigilant on your behalf. We must continue to fight trade policies that give away our members jobs and instead work to protect and revive manufacturing in the United States and Canada. We must continue to demand that our elected representatives push for legislation which helps to create good paying jobs, which protects collective bargaining rights and the right to organize, which preserves Social Security and Medicare, and which ends unfair and unwarranted tax cuts for the rich.

In 2015 the core mission of our International Union will continue to be to fight to improve wages, benefits and working conditions; to ensure justice and dignity on the job; and to take an active interest in all things that promise to advance the welfare of our members and all working people. Every International Officer, Local Union officer and committeeperson has a duty to work for the good of the membership. I am confident our record of dedicated and superior service will continue in 2015.

As 2014 comes to a close I want to take this opportunity to thank the officers of our GMP Local Unions across the United States and Canada for their dedicated efforts and hard work. We all appreciate the sacrifices and efforts you make on behalf of your local membership and our International Union. I also want to thank the officers and staff of the International Union who dedicate themselves every day to serving our membership. Continued success of our union in 2015 is dependent on the continued hard work, dedication, support, energy and positive action of all of our local and International officers and staff.

In this Season when peace is so much a part of our thoughts, we unfortunately cannot deny that this is a troubled world. Let us hope and let us act to bring about a better, safer world for all, especially our children and grandchildren.

On behalf of the International Officers and Staff, I wish all our members and their families Happy Holidays, and a Merry and Joyful Christmas and I send our warmest wishes for a New Year filled with good health, prosperity and peace for all.

They will have Summit meetings to discuss strategies and will work with their affiliated unions to bridge the relationships with young workers of the Labor Movement.

The GMP will be forming more alliances with other labor youth committees moving forward.
